

Universal Human Rights

A Concept Transcending Borders in a Globalized World?

Vortrag

Professor Joseph A. Slaughter,
Department of English and Comparative Literature,
Columbia University (New York)

Montag, 19. Juni 2017

14:00 Uhr

Campus Universität des Saarlandes

Gebäude C 5 3, Raum U 13

Eintritt frei

Joseph Slaughter specializes in literature, law, and socio-cultural history of the Global South (particularly Latin America and Africa). He's especially interested in the social work of literature—the myriad ways in which literature intersects (formally, historically, ideologically, materially) with problems of social justice, human rights, intellectual property, and international law.

His honors include a Guggenheim Fellowship, Public Voices Fellowship, Lenfest Distinguished Faculty Award. His book Human Rights, Inc.: The World Novel, Narrative Form, and International Law (Fordham UP, 2007), which explores the cooperative narrative logics of international human rights law and the Bildungsroman, was awarded the 2008 René Wellek prize for comparative literature and cultural theory. His essay, “Enabling Fictions and Novel Subjects: The Bildungsroman and International Human Rights Law,” was honored as one of the two best articles published in PMLA in 2006-7. He was elected to serve as President of the American Comparative Literature Association in 2016.

Der Vortrag ist eine gemeinsame Veranstaltung des DAI Saarland und des Lehrstuhls für Nordamerikanische Literatur und Kultur der Universität des Saarlandes im Rahmen der Veranstaltungsreihe der German-American Institutes und wird unterstützt von der U.S. Embassy in Berlin.