Workshop Matthew George

How we see each other - Do the Germans and English really know each other?

In an active workshop prejudices between the English and Germans will be dealt with. How do we really see each other and are our opinions of each other really true. Combined with cooperative learning methods participants will discuss and share their opinions in English and then using text, pictures and movement present their results. This workshop will give the participants concrete ideas and methods how they can deal with this topic in their own classroom.
